

Meet Elizabeth

I raised £3,820 to fund my World Challenge expedition to Borneo

Breakdown

£3,130 Part-time job

I worked in a supermarket at least twice a week

£270 Car boot sales

Cleared out old things around the house every few months

£250 Event catering

Provided, tea, cake and sandwiches at local cycling races

£100 easyfundraising.com

Spread my easyfundraising link to my friends and family

£70 Group car wash

Cleaned staff cars on a training day

Top Tips

1. Jobs are a reliable source to gain a lot of money
2. People who know you are more interested to help
3. Never be afraid to ask; for donations, people's time, and companies permission to run events
4. You don't need to run big events, little and often is better
5. People love to hear about what you're going to be doing when away so make your plans for the trip clear

A bit about me

- * I am from Milton Keynes
- * I compete in Road Cycling
- * I'm Vegan
- * I climbed Mount Kinabalu on my Borneo Expedition
- * I was born on Christmas Eve
- * I'm now a Sports Management student at Bournemouth University

Do initial fundraising ideas in a group, but when you grow confidence individual fundraising is much more fulfilling, because knowing you raised the money yourself makes the trip a million times better!