Safeguarding

- (1) Our working group on Addressing Intolerance and Harmful Sexualised Behaviours is reviewing how we can further enhance a culture of tolerance and respect, and ensure that all students are empowered to call out harmful behaviours. They will be working with student and parent focus groups in the coming weeks.
- (2) Online privacy and data theft: just like adults, children may be at risk of having their online identity stolen and misused. It can be difficult to maintain a child's privacy as they may not understand what information is safe to share online, or what default privacy settings are on the sites and devices they're using. Please click on the link which provides straightforward advice for parents and children.

Dr Kathy Weston - Tooled Up education

The image shows three rectangular cards from a digital library. Each card has a small thumbnail image at the top, followed by a yellow 'FEATURED' badge, a date, and a brief title. The first card (left) shows a person in profile, dated 22 April 2021, titled 'Dr Weston Talks with Professor David Gadd: Domestic Abuse and Teen Relationships'. The second card (middle) shows hands holding a cup, dated 5 May 2021, titled 'Why Won't My Child 'Open Up'?'. The third card (right) shows a young child peeking over a shoulder, dated 5 May 2021, titled '5 Ways to Teach Young Children about Body Boundaries'.

Last week, I delivered a talk on ‘Everyone’s Invited,’ the website and Instagram page created last year as a space for people to share their experiences of rape culture and sexual abuse. The issues raised have inspired some new resources in the Tooled Up library. The talk highlighted (amongst other things), the importance of teaching young children about body boundaries, so we have produced a video exploring 5 easy ways to help children understand the issues around respecting their own and others’ body boundaries. There will be more practical resources focusing on body boundaries arriving into the Tooled Up library soon. Encouraging your children to ‘open up’ about their thoughts and feelings can sometimes feel easier said than done, so we’ve also produced a video designed to get parents thinking about when and where these chats might take place. Parents of teens (with an interest in having brave conversations and sex and relationships) may find my interview with top criminologist Professor David Gadd useful and can look forward to a forthcoming podcast with Dr Fiona Vera-Gray.
